In this project, you will develop a simple ftp client called benimftp. Your ftp client may look similar to what is shown below:

As ftp library, you can use either the libCurl library or Qt’s own ftp libraries. Note the following:

- You should be able to select multiple files and transfer them.
- You do not need to transfer directories. You will get extra credit if you implement this feature.
- When you double click on a directory, you should show the listing of the directory.